Insurance cover for death, total and permanent disability, terminal illness and income protection is provided to MTAA Super members who are accepted for cover under an insurance policy issued by MetLife Insurance Limited (ABN 75 004 274 882, AFSL 238 096) (MetLife or the Insurer).

Duty of Disclosure – Important information before you begin this application

You have a duty of disclosure when applying for insurance. If you do not comply with your duty of disclosure, MTAA Super may avoid or vary your cover. This means you may not be able to claim your benefit or the amount you will receive will be reduced. Before answering the questions contained in this application form, it is important that you carefully read the Duty of Disclosure section at the end of this form which explains what you must disclose and the effect if you don't comply, with your duty of disclosure.

If you are currently insured for Death and/or Total and Permanent Disablement (TPD) cover, you can use this form to increase your cover if you have experienced one of the following life events:

- you get married
- you have a child or adopt a child
- you take out a mortgage to purchase or build the home that you intend to immediately reside
- you get divorced.

Please attach a certified photocopy of the relevant document/s outlined in Section E for the life event you are claiming.

Complete Sections A–D and return this form to us no more than 60 days after the life event occurred.

If you meet the conditions outlined above and the Insurer approves your application you will be advised of the amount of cover that will be offered as an increase. The additional life event cover will be on the same Work Scale as your current cover and will continue as unitted or fixed, unless you have applied to change it. As a general rule the increased sum insured on your existing Death or existing Death & TPD cover is limited to no more than the amount that would equate to 3 units on the General Scale at the time of your application.

This increase in cover cannot result in you holding more Death or TPD cover than your applicable Automatic Acceptance Limit (AAL). Please refer to the AAL table below.

Age next birthday	Death cover	TPD cover

Keep your insurance cover even if your super account becomes inactive

By law, we must cancel any insurance cover if your account has been inactive (no contributions or rollovers into the account) for 16 months or more. This is to protect your account from being eroded by insurance fees.

If you want to keep your insurance cover even if your account becomes inactive for 16 months or more, you can do so by making the following election:

I elect to maintain my insurance cover, even if my account becomes inactive for a continuous period of 16 months. I understand that I will continue to pay insurance fees for this cover from my MTAA Super account, even if my account becomes inactive for a continuous period of 16 months. I understand this election applies to all insurance cover provided through my MTAA Super account, including any cover for Death, Total and Permanent Disablement (TPD), and Income Protection.

Section G

Your duty of disclosure

A person who enters into a life insurance contract in respect of their own life has a duty, before entering into the contract, to tell the Insurer anything that he or she knows, or could reasonably be expected to know, which may affect the Insurer's decision to provide the insurance and on what terms.

The person entering into the contract has this duty until the Insurer agrees to provide the insurance.

The person entering into the contract has the same duty before he or she extends, varies or reinstates the contract.

The person entering into the contract does not need to tell the Insurer anything that:

- reduces the risk the Insurer insures him or her for, or
- is common knowledge, or
- the Insurer knows or should know as an Insurer, or
- the Insurer waives his or her duty to tell them about.

If the person does not tell the Insurer something that he or she knows, or could reasonably be expected to know, this may affect the Insurer's decision to provide the insurance and on what terms, and may be treated by the Insurer as a failure by the person entering into the contract to tell the Insurer something that he or she must disclose to the Insurer.

If the person entering the contract does not tell the Insurer something

In exercising the following rights, the Insurer may consider whether different types of cover can constitute separate contracts of life insurance. If they do, the Insurer may apply the following rights separately to each type of cover.

If the person entering into the contract does not tell the Insurer anything he or she is required to, and the Insurer would not have provided the insurance if he or she had disclosed the information, the Insurer may avoid the contract within 3 years of entering into it.

If the Insurer chooses not to avoid the contract, the Insurer may, at any time, reduce the amount of insurance provided. This would be worked out using a formula that takes into account the premium that would have been payable if the person had told the Insurer everything he or she should have.

However, if the contract has a surrender value, or provides cover on death, the Insurer may only exercise this right within 3 years of entering into the contract.

If the Insurer chooses not to avoid the contract or reduce the amount of insurance provided, the Insurer may, at any time vary the contract in a way that places the Insurer in the same position the Insurer would have been in if the person had told the Insurer everything he or she should have. However, this right does not apply if the contract has a surrender value or provides cover on death.

If the failure to tell the Insurer is fraudulent, the Insurer may refuse to pay a claim and treat the contract as if it never existed.
